Tasting notes

This is a velvety, rich wine, warm and inviting. You will find dark ripe raspberry and boysenberry here, along with Marcona almond and hints of toast coming from the French oak. There is a touch of sage and orange peel on the mid-palate that keeps this wine floral and lively. The finish goes on for a mile, and is smooth to the end. Winemaker Notes - There is incredible structure to this vintage, and the wine is wonderfully concentrated, due to the low yielding vines, very small berries, and loose clusters. - Jesse Katz

Vintage Notes - The 2015 vintage continued the trend begun the year before, of small, intensely concentrated Cabernet Sauvignon berries, again brought about by the state-wide drought that continued to play its part in shaping our lives and our wines. Some cool April rain also contributed to keeping our crop size down. Exceptionally warm summer days meant that the fruit ripened relatively early, and was able to be picked well before the rains. Alexander Valley, and Sei Querce, once again enjoyed a vintage of small quantity but extremely high quality.
